ATTEMPTED MURDER AT THE NORTH END

Ottavio Dispasquale Slashed by a Fellow Italian as Result of Fight Over Cards.

Ottavio Dispasquale, an Italian, is at the Cottage hospital in a critical condition as a result of a gash eleven inches long in his face and throat, and Luigi Citrano, another Italian, his alleged assailant, is at liberty, but with a bad gash on his face, which may lead to his arrest.

That Dispasquale was not murdered is due more to good luck than lack of intent on the part of Citrano, it is alleged. The cutting was the result of a quarrel over a game of cards in the kitchen of Ottavio Deberto on the corner of Russell and Wall streets, and just how it started or how the cutting was done is hard to find out, for those present profess ignorance and Dispasquale, like all of his race, does not appear anxious to give away any of the facts, preferring to await until he can square accounts himself.

This much is known. Dispasquale and Luigi Citrano were among a bunch of Italian laborers who have been working on the Atlantic Shore Line Railway, and yesterday they got through and came to this city. They were together and were at the Deberto place and according to some statements, were engaged in a game of cards with two others, when a dispute rose and Citrano pulled a knife and made a slash at Dispasquale and cut a horrible gash across his face severing the ear and cutting down into the throat a distance of several inches. In the fight for the knife that ensued, Citrano got cut on the face and Dispasquale was cut on the hands.

When he got clear, Citrano made a break for liberty and was well out of sight by the time the police arrived. Dr. F. S. Towle was called and he ordered the man taken to the hospital in the ambulance, but by this time he had lost a great amount of blood.

At the hospital Dr. Towle was assisted by Dr. J. J. Berry, and they think that while Dispasquale is in a bad way, he has a chance for his life, providing he has not lost too much blood. The gash is eleven inches long and it extends from the mouth across the cheek, severing the ear and passing down the throat, narrowly missing the jugular vein.

Deputy Marshal Hurley and Officers Shannon, Burke and McCaffery, as soon as the case was reported, made a hurried trip to the scene, but by that time Citrano had made his escape.

It was found that when he came out of the house he ran down over the ledge to Green street and then turned and went back to Russell street through the passageway alongside of the "Toboggan Slide." He was seen by several people to start that way, and later there were some people who claimed to have seen him start toward Call's lumber yard and threaten some boys who attempted to follow him. At any rate the trail was lost on Russell street and although the police made a complete search of the houses in that section where he could seek shelter, and watched the railroad tracks, they were unable to locate any trace of him and they are of the opinion that he is still in hiding in some of the houses and being protected by some of his friends.

The fact that he has a gash in his cheek, made, some say, by the knife or razor, and by others by being struck by another Italian, may help the police, providing he attempts to get away.

A PORTSMOUTH GIRL'S HONORS

In the graduation exercises held at Mount St. Mary's school, Manchester, on Tuesday, Miss Mollie J. Newton was awarded a graduation medal, a medal for politeness. She also was one of the exhibitors in the needle work exhibition in the morning program at 10.30 she gave the salutatory and her theme was "On the Threshold." Her work at the school as a whole was most pleasing to the management which is apparent from the honors with which the young lady retires.

Good Templars Go Visiting in Portsmouth

United States Engineering Yacht in the Harbor

Kittery, Me., June 23.
Kittery correspondent's telephone 297-5.

The following officers have been elected for the ensuing year in the Second Christian church Bible school: President, Melvin G. Ford, assistant, Edwin A. Duncan; secretary, Mrs. Mark Fernald; treasurer, Alexander Dennett; librarian, Miss Lillian F. Goodrich; assistant, Sherman Waldron; pianist, Rev. Edward H. Macy. The Perkins-Kennedy wedding occurs this evening.

Car No. 34, the 420 trip from Badger's Island burned out a fuse on Bridge Hill and caught fire in two places. The blaze was easily extinguished with sand and the car was towed to the car barn.

Whipple lodge of Good Templars will be the guests of Rockingham lodge of Portsmouth this evening.

A dance will be given this evening at the Kittery Yacht club. Luts and Donnell will furnish the music.

Jacob Wendell, Jr., is passing a few days in Boston.

The thermometer of Henry F. Colby at North Kittery reached 101 degrees in the shade on Tuesday.

A regular meeting of Red Men will be held Friday evening in Grange hall.

Work on the quay wall extension at the navy yard is held up by the delay in the arrival of a lighter to handle the stone. A schooner loaded with granite has been at anchor in the lower harbor for several days, but there is as yet no way of discharging her cargo. The schooner, which was equipped for such service has been sent away for other work, and the expected lighter is to take her place.

Hundreds of the workmen called for duty at the navy yard during the rush work on the battleships are now living in daily anticipation of their discharge, but if the departure of the remaining ships continues to be delayed, there would seem to be no cause for anxiety. The orders almost daily reported as received, and in no two cases alike, apparently have no effect on the sailing of the ships.

Navy yard workmen from Kittery Point and Eliot are now coming to work in motor boats.

The condition of Mrs. Daniel B. Cook, who is at the Cushing hospital in Boston for surgical treatment is said to be encouraging.

Kittery Point

Kittery Point correspondent's telephone 297-5.

This morning the steamer Queen City instituted a passenger service between Frisbee's wharf and Portsmouth. She left here at 9.25 on the first trip.

Miss Bessie Sawyer, who is employed in E. H. Cousens' lake shop, had her right hand painfully cut while at work Tuesday morning. The wound was dressed at Dr. Carty's office.

Mrs. Katherine Day, who has been at C. H. Appleton's has left for Saratoga, N. Y.

Douglas G. Harvey has returned to his home in Dixon, Ill., after a two weeks' visit with his aunt, Miss E. A. Harvey, at her summer home on Gerish island.

Lawrence Wright of Portsmouth was in town Tuesday on business.

Dr. J. D. Carty is enjoying a week's fishing trip in the northern part of the state.

The United States engineers yacht Nerka, took Col. George A. Zinn and a party of friends on a spin about the river and harbor Tuesday afternoon. The friends came up from Portland by auto.

With the summer schedule, which went into effect Tuesday on the Atlantic Shore line, through cars run half hourly.

Arthur C. Gunnison on Tuesday entered upon his duties as baggage master at the York Harbor and Beach local depot.

Charles C. Deering, a student at Bowdoin, has taken the position of conductor on the Atlantic Shore line, which he has filled for several summers past.

Miss Lillian Godfrey has taken a position as bookkeeper at John G. Sweetser's store in Portsmouth.

Hiram Tobey, Jr., has received his discharge in the navy yard boat shop.

The Misses Elizabeth and Hilda Hayes of Portsmouth were guests of friends in town on Monday evening.

The steam yacht Needle, owned by Ernest B. Dane of Boston, was in port over night.

The Horace Mitchell school closes on Friday for the summer vacation.

That the workmen are forsaking the Atlantic Shore line in large numbers is very plainly shown by the withdrawal of the navy yard extra, which was taken off Tuesday night. The six cent fare worries them not in the least, for they are by no means obliged to pay it.

Winthrop L. Marvin and family of Boston have arrived at the Van Rensselaer cottage on Jamaica Island. Mr. Marvin's father, Col. Thomas E. O. Marvin of New York, formerly mayor of Portsmouth, will pass the summer with him.

The Cobb-Segee wedding occurs today at 2 p. m. Rev. Daniel Onstott will officiate.

Guests are arriving daily at the Parkfield and Champernowne hotels. Miss Sadie S. Bickford of Pleasant street, Kittery, this morning entered upon her duties as assistant in the postoffice.

On the tennis court at the Horace Mitchell school at 6 o'clock this evening three sets will be played, the participants being Principal John W. F. Hodgdon and Fred H. Rolfe, against Rev. James A. Donahue and Elmer O. Pray.

The five master Gardiner G. Deering, Capt. J. E. Ross, arrived this morning from Philadelphia with 3300 tons of coal consigned to the Ameskeag Manufacturing company of Manchester, N. H.

Miss Katherine Jennison returned today from a short visit in Boston.

The Italians who have been at work on the Atlantic Shore line have concluded their labors and left Tuesday for Boston.

Hiram Thomson will accompany DeWitt Clinton Commandery on its annual pilgrimage to Manchester-by-the-Sea, leaving tonight. Mr. Thomson is Kittery Point's only representative to enjoy the outing.

Barges Langhorne and Kimbenton are on the way from Philadelphia with coal for Portsmouth.

The theft of Capt. William Burke's sailboat and her subsequent abandonment on Gerrish Island flats occasioned much interest here.

Prof. Roland Thaxter and son Edmund of Cambridge arrived today at their Cutts island cottage, for the summer.

THIRD TERM FOR LYFORD

As Naval Officer At Port of Boston

Washington, June 23.—James O. Lyford, naval officer at the port of Boston, will be reappointed for a fourth term of four years. This has been agreed upon by the Massachusetts senators and the New Hampshire delegation. On Tuesday Mr. Lyford was accompanied to the White House by Senators Gallinger and Burnham, who told President Taft that Mr. Lyford's retention was desired.

He will be indorsed for reappointment at the proper time by Senators Lodge and Crane and the entire New Hampshire delegation.

Mr. Lyford is now serving his third

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE COMPANIONS OF FOREST

The Biennial State Convention is in Session Today in Portsmouth

The fifth biennial convention of the Grand Circle Companions of the Forest, opened here at 9.45 o'clock this morning for a two days convention and from the present indications it looks like a very big meeting.

Last evening between thirty-five and forty delegates from the Circles at Keene, Wilton, Claremont, Peterboro, Exeter arrived here and they are making their headquarters at the Kearsarge Hotel.

More of the delegates are coming today and that all of the circles in the state will be represented.

The meeting was called to order by the grand chief companion, Mrs. E. T. O'Connor of Claremont.

Companion William A. A. Cullen of Portsmouth introduced Mayor E. H. Adams, who gave the address of welcome. The response was by the grand chief, Mrs. O'Connor.

On behalf of Constitution circle, No. 294, bouquets of plums and ferns were presented to Mayor Adams and Grand Chief Companion Mrs. E. T. O'Connor.

A recess was taken at 10.40 to allow delegates to visit the navy yard. The meeting resumed at two o'clock this afternoon. This evening there will be a trolley ride to Hampton Beach and a supper, returning here late this afternoon.

The grand officers present are: G. C. C.—Mrs. E. T. O'Connor, Claremont.

G. S. C.—Miss Anna Lynch, Portsmouth.

G. P. S.—Mrs. Margaret A. Clark, Concord.

G. R. S.—Mrs. Mary Ryan, Portsmouth.

G. T.—Miss Nellie Lyons, Manchester.

G. R. G.—Mrs. Margaret Fitzgerald, Wilton.

term, which will be completed early next year. He will probably be reappointed in November or December, as was the case in 1905.

Under an agreement reached during President Grant's first term, New Hampshire was conceded the privilege of naming the naval officer at Boston and this agreement had been consistently respected.

It is understood that if a contest should develop in New Hampshire over his reappointment the Massachusetts senators would present the name of a Bay state man.

Mr. Lyford came to Washington on business before the treasury department, chiefly in connection with the proposed remodeling of the Boston customhouse. He left this evening for Baltimore, whence he will sail for Boston.

The New Hampshire senators told the president that the state delegation would recommend Walter W. Scott, speaker of the New Hampshire house of representatives, for appointment as supervisor of the census for the state. His appointment is expected to follow in due course.

The Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont senators have agreed that Dr. E. O. Crossman, collector of internal revenue for the district which includes those states, shall not be disturbed. Dr. Crossman has been collector for four years.

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY LIGHT & POWER CO

J. B. Whitaker Supt.

ARRESTED FOR HIGHWAY ROBBERY

John B. Charland and William Welcome of Manchester are Charged With a Serious Crime.

In the arrest of John B. Charland and William Welcome at Manchester on Sunday, the police are confident that they have cleared up the mystery of the holdup and robbery of Ralph L. Watts on the road near Londonderry last Friday, when he was robbed of over $50 by two masked men at the point of a revolver. Watts was held up and taken from his grocery wagon into a woods and tied to a tree and then robbed by the two men.

The arrests were made by Detectives O'Dowd and Hildreth of the Manchester police and it was a good bit of work. They have evidence enough, they claim, to connect both men with the crime, and as it was committed in Rockingham County, Solicitor C. H. Batchelder of this city has been notified and the prisoners will be turned over to Sheriff Spinney.

Both men have had records, and the combined with the charge of highway robbery, will land them a heavy sentence.

Andrew Charland, a brother of John B., who, it is said, knew about the robbery, but did not take a direct part, was arrested Monday, and he was tried by the Derry court for breaking and entering a house at Wilson Crossing in this county, and he was held in $500 for the upper court and in default was brought to Rockingham-Junction last evening by Deputy Sheriff Webster and turned over to Deputy Sheriff Shaw of this city who brought him to the local jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Welcome and Charland will possibly be arranged today and then brought to this city and lodged in the jail.

A BRILLIANT PIANOFORTE RECITAL LAST EVENING

Despite the intense heat of Tuesday evening, Association hall was crowded, the occasion being the pianoforte recital by the pupils of Miss Ethel Whitton Thompson, one of the best known teachers in this section.

Miss M. Dorothy Thullen a soprano soloist of Philadelphia, who for several years has been the soloist of St. Peter's church at Cold Head Cliff, assisted.

She has a charming voice and was heard to good advantage in the selections. Miss Thompson has also served as organist at St. Peter's church at Cold Head Cliff.

All of the numbers by the pupils were well rendered and showed careful instruction, while some of the work of the larger pupils was exceptionally fine.

EXTRA COST FOR THE BIG CRUISE

Servational writers and uniform critics of the navy, who have asserted that the world cruise of the Atlantic fleet caused such damage to the battleships that all needed thorough overhauling at great expense are somewhat discomfited by Acting Secretary of the Navy Winthrop.

In order that the public may be correctly informed as to the cost of the repairs that were made necessary by the trip, Mr. Winthrop has had every item tabulated showing the entire additional cost would be a fraction over $50,000 for the whole fleet. This sum is but a small portion of the cost of repairs that have been found necessary on the ships of the fleet however but after careful calculation is held to be the amount that the cruise added to what it would have cost for fleet repairs if the vessels had been cruising on the Atlantic coast. The figures are compiled from data provided from the various navy yards. The additional expense for the fleet and each ship is as follows.

Vessel	Engineering Equipment
Vermont	$189.51
Connecticut	336.67
Nebraska	800.00
Kansas	236.00
Minnesota	1,038.25
Wisconsin	1,138.25
Rhode Island	2,491.43
Ohio	1,893.50
Louisiana	1,900.00
Georgia	4,626.50
New Jersey	12,676.37
Missouri	12,655.50
Virginia	$39,978.97
TOTAL	$10,201

This does not include the Illinois Kentucky and Kearsarge, which will not be repaired until the other ships are out to sea. The Maine and Alabama dropped out on the West coast and have been thoroughly overhauled their places having been taken by the Wisconsin and Nebraska, sailing from San Francisco to Hampton Roads.

THEATRICAL TOPICS

Next Week at Keith's

Events of importance are following each other in rapid succession at Keith's Theatre these days the latest announcement being the appearance of Mile. Dazie, the dancer, who created a sensation in the "Follies of 1908" and has been engaged for a short season in the Keith houses in fact, a season of only two weeks, one of which will be played in Boston beginning June 28th after which Mile. Dazie will sail for Europe. This special vaudeville venture will be in a new pantomime, "L'Amour d'Artiste" written by Sig. G. Molasso, and she will be the first American dancer to attempt a story without words and arrangements for this event have been underway for some time. It is expected that in this offering Mile. Dazie will outdo her former successes as a dancer. She will head another one of those big summer bills that are attracting so much attention in fact it will be the longest bill of the season.

It will also mark the first vaudeville appearance in Boston of Pen Johnson the star of "Paid in Full" who has a wide reputation among his friends as a monologist.

Edwin Stanley and Company, will appear in an elaborate musical act. Wynn and Lee will be remembered in that excellent talking sketch called "The College Boys." The Bounding Gordons are among the strongest of the acrobatic acts now in vaudeville. Cunningham and Marion will appear in what they term "An acrobatic talkfest." The Dagwell Sisters will be seen in songs and dances, there are the Van Der Koors; Chalk Saunders the cartoonist; and De Champs' Dogs.

ORCHARDS OF NEW ENGLAND

Disused Pasture Lots Are Being Turned into Great Fruit Fields

New England is enjoying to a marked degree the benefits of the "apple boom" which was fostered by the railroads of the section, and widespread interest is shown in the effort to develop orchards of this fruit throughout the six states. Several companies have been organized for the purpose of setting out large plantations and the work is beginning to show very satisfactory results. One concern has planted 6000 trees and intends to set out additional growth each spring, so that by the time the first sets begin to bear the orchard will be approximately twice as large as at present.

Individuals, too, are taking an active interest in the matter and at numerous places in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts new orchards of from 200 to 1000 trees have been started on land well adapted for the purpose but heretofore finding its principal value as "pasture lots." That the results will mean profits to those who develop the orchards scientifically no one with experience in apple culture doubts, and no fear is expressed that the incursion on the New England-New York markets by the beautiful-in-appearance but tasteless-in-flavor product of the western fruit things, he said recently.

One of the leading orchardists of New England, E. Cyrus Miller, of Haydenville, Mass., gives much valuable advice to present and intending growers in a series of articles in the New England Farmer. Among other things, he said recently:

"The best land and location on a farm is none too good for the apple orchard. Average farm land is not worth over $100 per acre and, if planted to apple trees, and well-cared for for a period of ten years, it may be made worth from $500 to $1000 per acre, with a still further increase in value as the trees become more productive. The acre of well-grown, cared-for apple orchard is one of the most valuable acres devoted to agricultural purposes that we can find in New England, hence no land is too good or too well located to be utilized for that purpose. As to which is the best exposure, depends largely upon the surroundings. In proximity to bodies of water the best exposure is toward the water. In localities subject to late spring frosts the safest exposure is toward the north, as this helps retard the period of bloom until danger from frost is over. On the other hand, fruit grown on a northerly exposure, especially if it be steep, will not ripen or color as highly as on an easterly or southerly. While opinions may differ on this point, my own judgment is that the ideal soil for apple growing is a stony loam. While the apple tree readily adapts itself to a great variety of soil, yet I think it will not be disputed that it does much better on some than on others. The light, sandy soils may be more easily worked, but they are usually deficient in plant food, and are not retentive of it when fertilizers are applied to them. Clay soils are too heavy and are difficult to work and the soil is liable to bake in the hot sun of the summer months, besides frequently being poorly drained. There is scarcely a farm in the hilly section of New England on which may not be found a site, either large or small, that is fairly well adapted for the growing of the apple.

"In my opinion the best trees for New England orchard planters to use are the 2-year-old trees, that is, two years from the time of being budded. We find many planters using whips, or year-old trees, making the argument that they are cheaper, while in reality they are not cheaper when value received is considered, neither are they so likely to prove satisfactory to the planter as regards future growth. A first-class 2-year-old tree may be purchased for $25 per 100. The value of a year's growth on an apple tree of a suitable variety planted into cultivated ground and properly cared for is not less than $2, hence the man who buys the year-old trees loses $2 in order to save from 10 to 15 cents—a poor beginning in orchard management."

MORE THAN MILLION TREES

The Pennsylvania Railroad's Big Planting in a Single Season

The Pennsylvania railroad has set out more than 1,000,000 trees this spring, making a total of 2,430,000 that have been planted in the last three years. Heretofore the company's forestry operations have been confined to a limited area between Philadelphia and Altoona. This year, however, 65,000 trees are being set out on tracts of land near Metuchen and New Brunswick, N. J. There were planted last month 207,000 trees near Conowingo, Pa., 156,000 in the vicinity of Van Dyke, 334,000 at Lewisburg Junction, 7000 at Pomeroy and 295,000 at Denholm. Of the trees set out this spring 257,000 are red and 49,000 Scotch pine, 29,000 locust, 14,600 hardy catalpa, 14,000 pin oak, 5000 European larch, 2000 chestnut, 2000 yellow poplar, 2000 black walnut and 1000 white pine. The policy of encouraging reforestation on the part of the public has been actively pursued this spring. Some 150,000 trees have been furnished, practically at cost, to private corporations and individuals. At the Morrisville nursery alone, approximately 1,250,000 trees have been dug, banded and shipped to places along the railroad. This spring 100 pounds of pine and spruce tree seed, which should produce about 1,000,000 plants, have been planted.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to:

BRIEF CAREER OF JOAN OF ARC

Vividly Portrayed In Arena
of Harvard Stadium

TWO THOUSAND TAKE PART

Flocks of Living Sheep, Forest Trees, Soldiers, Serfs and Valets Combine With Elaborate Scenery to Reproduce In Most Realistic Manner Scenes Enacted Five Centuries Ago—Performance Moves Smoothly

Cambridge, Mass., June 23.—The experiment of producing Schiller's "Maid of Orleans" beneath the starry skies, with close approach to the historic detail surrounding the bright figure of the middle ages, was carried out with considerable success last night, in the extensive arena of the Harvard Stadium, by Miss Maude Adams and a company numbering about 2000 persons.

At the suggestion of the Germanic Museum at Harvard, the spectacle was made possible through a realization of the resources of the largest amphitheatre in the country by John Alexander, the Parisian-American, with Miss Adams' personality and talents as its inspiration.

The performance was undertaken for the benefit of the museum and the greater part of the working force of the Frohman syndicate became actively engaged in its production.

More than 15,000 people, massed tier above tier, saw what was intended to be a nearer approach to the German poet's idea of Joan of Arc and the eventual scenes in her brief career than Schiller's drama itself is to the accepted facts.

The beauty of Schiller's lines and the magnitude of the plan of reproduction combined to make the few hours of intense pleasure. The historic perspective was skillfully maintained throughout, from the little pastoral scene in Johanna's father's home with the flocks of living sheep and actual trees of the forest, to the splendor of the French court, the clash of the English and French arms, the coronation pageant and the death scene in the cathedral.

The motley crowds of serfs and valets was made up of Harvard students. Men of the state militia marched as archers and spearmen in the French and English armies. Horsemen from military batteries clattered into the arena in coats of mail of five centuries ago, while able actors in armor tramped the greenward and clashed in duels in the most realistic manner.

And through all the scenes threaded the slim figure of Miss Adams as the French maid, first in a homely peasant's dress, then in a brilliant armor and seated on a milk white charger, and finally in the knightly costume, which at last became her shroud.

The scale upon which the scenery was prepared was consistent with the proportions of the amphitheatre. A special electric light plant was installed to supply the hundreds of brilliant lights needed, a great cathedral was erected, background constructed and a realistic forest created.

The performance itself moved with remarkable smoothness, considering the immensity of the undertaking, and the fact that opportunity for repeated rehearsals had not been found.

The spoken parts were well presented. The words of the actors could be distinctly heard, despite the great distance of the speakers from the audience and the absence of acoustic devices.

Miss Adams was warmly received and was accorded an ovation at the close of the performance, near the midnight hour.

BELMONT TURNS FIRST SOD

He Says Cape Cod Canal Will Be Pushed Through to Completion

Sandwich, Mass., June 23.—In turning up a spadeful of earth at Bourneville, half way across Cape Cod, August Belmont of New York declared that a formal beginning had been made in the construction of the long-looked-for Cape Cod canal, and said that it would surely be pushed through to completion.

Besides Belmont, who is president of the holding company which is financing the work, stood Robert Bacon, looked upon as a representative of J. P. Morgan & Co.; President Lewis of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, former Governor Warfield of Maryland, and a score of engineers.

Later, the party, which came down here, viewed the dumping of granite off the Sandwich shore for the construction of the protecting breakwater to the northeast entrance of the canal. The party also inspected the Buzzard's bay approaches to the canal.

GENTRY IS SET FREE

Pardon of Slayer of Madge Yorke Is Signed by Governor Stuart

Harrisburg, June 23.—Governor Stuart yesterday afternoon signed the pardon for James B. Gentry, the actor, who murdered his sweetheart, Madge Yorke, in Philadelphia in 1895. The papers were mailed to Philadelphia last evening and Gentry was set free this morning.

The official reasons for the pardon are that Gentry was unable to bring material witnesses from outside the state to the trial; that subsequently developed evidence throws no light on his mental condition at the time of the crime; that he has served the full amount of time for second degree murder, and that his health would be seriously impaired by further confinement.

HARDING IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Youth Accused of Causing
Death of Constable Miller

Webster, Mass., June 23.—Ralph Harding, charged with the murder of Constable Albert E. Miller and with breaking and entering, was held without bail on the former charge and in $2000 bonds for the latter for the grand jury in the district court here.

Harding is but 19 years old and did not seem to realize the enormity of the charge against him. Since his arrest he has maintained an attitude of indifference and insists that he did not do any shooting himself, but claims that his brother and Constable Miller did all there was.

He admits that he took the two revolvers away with him when he left the scene of the crime and stated that he threw them away by the roadside when he became frightened. He also admits that he, with his brother, robbed a bakery at Webster.

HOTEL MAN FINED $1000

Violated Contract Labor Law by Importing a French Chef

New York, June 23.—The importation of a chef to concoct French delicacies for patrons of the Hotel Knickerbocker was held by the United States district court here to be a violation of the contract labor law, and a fine of $1000 was imposed upon James B. Regan, proprietor of the hotel.

It was brought out by the government that Regan had entered into a contract for Robert Foreau, a Frenchman, who was chef at the Criterion restaurant in London, to come to New York at a salary of more than $100 a week. Foreau was recently deported.

UNREST IN HONDURAS

Gunboat Paducah Is Near at Hand in Case of Any Emergency

Washington, June 23.—The state department has received reports indicating evidence of unrest in Honduras, but the dispatches lack specific detail, both as to locality of threatened trouble and as to what may be expected.

Meanwhile the gunboat Paducah is being kept in Honduran waters, nominally for the protection of American interests, but ready for any action which she may be called on to perform.

The gunboat Dubuque has gone to Porto Barrios, Guatemala, for patrol service.

Steamship Profits Falling Off

London, June 23.—The report of the Oceanic Steam Navigation company, owners of the White Star line, for 1908, tells the same tale as the reports of other Atlantic steamship companies, the profits being set down as $1,499,705 as against $4,232,430 in 1907. A dividend of 10 percent is declared.

CHING SIN TELLS OF CRIME

He Breaks Down Under
Third Degree Inquisition

MURDER OF ELSIE SIGEL

Says He Witnessed Tragedy While In Adjoining Room—Girl Strangled by Leon Ling While She Fought Him—Says He Had No Hand in Placing Body in Trunk—No Light as to Whereabouts of Murderer

New York, June 23.—Battered and intimidated by detectives, threatened with prosecution and confused with rapid-fire questions, Chung Sin, one-time roommate of Leon Ling, told of Elsie Sigel's murder. Under the terrific pressure of the "third degree," the little Chinaman admitted that he had seen the body in Leon Ling's room over the Eighth avenue chop suey restaurant, that he had touched it while it was still warm, that he had smelled drugs and had watched Leon Ling's preparations for placing the body in the trunk where it was found horribly decomposed on Friday night last.

He denied any implication in it and protested stoutly that he was ignorant of the whereabouts of Leon Ling, the supposed murderer. But after the inquisition he was held in $10,000 bail to await the inquest.

Chung Sin is 35 years old and a native of Canton. He was arrested Monday at West Galway, N. Y., and was brought to New York.

From the man's story it is apparent that Elsie Sigel was first drugged with chloroform and then choked to death. She was killed apparently on the night of June 9, although Chung Sin appeared a little mixed in his dates. But he says that early in the morning of June 10 he heard a strange noise in Leon's room adjoining his, and looked over the transom.

"Elsie Sigel, the girl, was on the bed," said the Chinaman, while his hearers drew closer in horrified suspense, "and Leon was bending over her. A handkerchief was sticking out of her mouth and I saw the blood on it. She was fighting with him, but he only pressed the handkerchief harder into her mouth. Finally she struggled no more and lay still and Leon stood up and looked down at her."

Chung Sin passed through the room later, he said, to go out to wash his hands and as he did so felt of the body, which was still warm. Afterward he went down to the chop suey restaurant below, then returned to the room.

Leon in the meantime had covered the body with a blanket up to the chin and had pulled a trunk to the middle of the floor. This trunk Leon was calmly emptying, preparatory to placing the body therein. The rope with which the body was bound was lying on the floor at the time, according to Chung Sin. Once again he went down stairs, said Chung Sin, where he remained until Leon called him. When he entered the room the body was not visible, having been bound with the rope and placed in the trunk.

At this point of the story, the Chinaman was asked savagely if he had not assisted his pal in putting the body in the trunk. Chung Sin started perceptibly, but said that he had had no hand in it.

"I didn't see her no more," said Chung Sin, "and when I asked Leon how she died he said she had bitten her tongue and bled to death." Leon told him, Chung Sin added, that he was going to send the trunk to Jersey City, thence to Europe. As a matter of fact, it lay untouched in the stuffy little room until Sun Leung, proprietor of the restaurant below, noticed the odor about the building and summoned the police.

Those who heard this recital were almost overcome with the thought that Chung Sin could have stood by in an adjoining room without raising a hand to prevent it.

Until Chung Sin's complete account was made public it will not be explained why he saw the dead girl and the preparations for the removal of the body with such apparent unconcern at the time.

Taking up his own case Chung Sin explained his sudden disappearance after the murder by saying that he had been employed by a well-to-do New Yorker, at whose country place near Amsterdam he was arrested. Chung says that he accepted this position in order to get out of town, having hurried from the scene of the murder in fear and sought out his brother in Chinatown, who procured him the position. He admitted having borrowed $250 from Chu Gain, proprietor of the Port Arthur restaurant in Chinatown, who is also held in connection with the case. Incidentally he said that Leon Ling and Chu Gain had come to blows over the girl in Chinatown some weeks ago. The police theory is that Leon killed the girl because of her attentions to Chu Gain.

Chu Gain, who was arraigned in the Tombs police court Tuesday and discharged by Magistrate Cornell, was later re-arrested at the instance of Coroner Harburger and held in $1000 bail by him as a material witness. He readily furnished bail.

YANKEES WILL TRY FOR POLO TROPHY

Four Experts to Tackle Britishers In Ancient Game

London, June 23.—Today's game between the crack American polo team which has invaded England with the understood but not expressed purpose of taking home the international championship and the best players that Great Britain can produce has engaged the attention of the entire British sport loving world. The Britons are anxious to see whether the Yankees can produce four men able to compete on even terms with Britons in a game that has long been regarded as peculiarly British.

If any four American polo players can take home the international trophy they are the four who will ride and hit the ball in today's match. They are Harry P. Whitney, "Monte" Waterbury, Lawrence Waterbury and Devereux Milburn. Known on both sides of the Atlantic as daring and skillful players of the ancient game. They have brought their own ponies with them to England and are confident of breaking the long string of defeats of American polo players at the hands of hoofs of the Britishers.

The first international match was played at Newport a score of years ago. In 1902 at the queen's jubilee a determined attempt was made for international honors by a team which included the two Waterbury brothers who are playing today, but it failed to recapture the trophy which the English players won at Newport and took home in triumph to Hurlingham.

VOCAL DERBY EVENT

Five Glee Clubs Sing Difficult Piece In Contest For Trophy

New York, June 23.—Behind a canvas screen which eliminated the eye as a factor in the judgment, ten sensitive ears listened critically last night to the flax and most important competition of the Saengerfest at Madison Square Garden.

The trophy for which five glee clubs sang was offered by Emperor William of Germany. Each club sang "Wannung Vor dem Rhein," a pleasing but difficult piece which sounded a father's warning to his son against the gay life of the Rhine.

The winner of this event and several other prize contests will be announced today.

ONE VICTORY FOR MRS. GOULD

Court Allows Additional
Counsel Fee of $10,000

EVIDENCE IN CASE PROPER

Hotel Men Deny Knowledge of Any Undue Intimacy Between Plaintiff and Actor Farnum—Long String of Witnesses Give Testimony Tending to Disprove Defendant's Claim That Wife Was Addicted to Drink

New York, June 23.—While counsel for Katherine C. Gould brought up a reinforcement of witnesses in one part of the supreme court Tuesday to combat the charges of intoxication and misconduct made by the defense in her suit for separation, with alimony, from her husband, Howard Gould, the plaintiff won a victory in another part of the court by a decision of Justice Giegerich. He ruled that Mrs. Gould shall be allowed an additional counsel fee of $10,000 at the expense of her husband.

An allowance of $5000 was made to Mrs. Gould last fall for the prosecution of her suit, at which time the court intimated that a subsequent application for an increase might be entertained. Attorneys for Howard Gould protested that it had not been shown that the wife was without sufficient means to pay her counsel, but Giegerich thought otherwise.

While this financial feature was being decided, Justice Dowling continued to hear the case proper. Hotel proprietor and hotel manager who denied knowledge of any undue intimacy between Mrs. Gould and Dustin Farnum, the actor, as the defense alleges; employees of Castle Gould, members of the crew of the Gould yacht Niagara, hotel chefs, hairdressers and seamstresses who testified to Mrs. Gould's sobriety on all occasions that they could recall, constituted the bulk of the testimony of the reserve forces which were called by Mrs. Gould's lawyer. There are thirty or more witnesses yet to be called.

At adjournment of court Justice Dowling announced that he would sit tonight until the case was finished, with the exception of Mrs. Gould's testimony in rebuttal, if she should be recalled to the witness stand.

WAVING OF HANDKERCHIEF

Proved Potent Enough to Stop Trial of an Alleged Murderer

Chicago, June 23.—The trial of Joseph Bertucci, an alleged "Black Hand" murderer, came to a sudden halt when an Italian entered the courtroom and waved a handkerchief at Bruno Nardi, the star witness for the state, who had just taken the stand to tell of the murder. The signaling Italian fled after waving the handkerchief and detectives could not find him.

Nardi refused to answer any more questions put to him by the prosecutor, saying that he would be killed if he testified against Bertucci. The same fear was expressed by Nardi's wife, also a material witness, and the prosecutor was forced to adjourn the trial.

AN UNSATISFACTORY BOUT

Hisses and Jeers From Disappointed Sports Greet Nelson and Clifford

Oklahoma City, June 23.—Hattling Nelson got the decision against Jack Clifford in the fifth round of a fifteen round bout last night. Referee Porteus stopped the fight when Clifford had been knocked down by a heavy jab in the stomach. He said he feared Clifford would be hurt and the police would interfere. Clifford rose after the count of five, however, and demanded that the fight continue.

The abrupt ending of the match angered the crowd of about 4000 persons, who hissed and jeered the fighters. The disappointed fans crowded about the box office, demanding that their money be refunded.

STEAMING THE RAILS

How a Railroad Is Getting Rid of a Caterpillar Nuisance

St. John, June 23.—The Canadian Pacific railroad officials have at last devised a plan to rid the rails of caterpillars, which in the counties of York and Sanbury have held up trains at various points during the past two weeks.

Hereafter during the caterpillar season a big mogul locomotive, with two pipes connected with the engine's exhaust and attached ahead of the foremost wheels, will be run regularly over the sections of road which the pests use as a highway. The steam from the pipes cleans the rails and eliminates the substance which causes the wheels to slip.

The caterpillars left the woods about two weeks ago and began a migratory movement westward by way of the railroad. A few days ago there was a line of the insects seven miles in length.

CHERISHES NO ILL WILL

Foster Says Baptist Church Must Respond to New Ideas or Die

Chicago, June 23.—Professor George B. Foster, who was dropped from the roll of the Baptist Ministers' Conference of Chicago, commenting on that action, said:

"I cherish no ill will. If they feel that our ideas are so diametrically opposed I do not care to be one of them. My attitude is the same toward the Hyde Park church, where, I believe, however, there is a different spirit."

"In my opinion the Baptist church must progress or petrify. It must respond to new ideas if it is to live. So I believe and so I have expressed myself. My position on the faculty of the University of Chicago lies with the authorities, who are reasonable and noble men."

SUGGESTION HELPS DOCTORS TO CURE

Medical Men Are Advised to Study and Teach It

Detroit, June 23.—The spread of Eddyism and the Emmanuel movement emphasizes the fact that we have another potent weapon at our command," said Dr. W. H. Dieffenbach of New York in his annual presidential address to the National Society of Psychical Therapeutics, affiliated with the American Institute of Homeopathy, which is in session here.

"The use of suggestion to patients," continued the doctor, "should be studied and taught, as should every other agent promising relief in the cure of the sick."

He asserted that to confine the medical profession to drugs, surgeon or any other system alone, "is a crime to mankind, and the time is not far distant when liberality and breadth of view in medicine will reap its reward."

ALFONSO'S FAMILY GROWS

Arrival of New Princess Brings Joy to the Royal Household

La Granja, Spain, June 23.—Queen Victoria gave birth to a daughter here. The booming of fifteen guns announced the birth of a girl to the people, and the rejoicing thereafter was general.

The birth of a princess is particularly pleasing to both the king and the queen, as they had hoped that this child, the third, would be a girl. The first two children are boys. Prince Alfonso, born May 19, 1907, and Prince Jaime, born June 23, 1908. Queen Victoria was married to King Alfonso May 31, 1906. The princess will be named Beatrice, after her grandmother. The baptism has been fixed for June 27.

OUR NEW ENGLAND WOODS

Northern New England has already suffered severely from forest fires, this season, and the time of the big droughts is not yet arrived.

With our rapidly diminishing forests, and the increasing scarcity and price of lumber, the New England state legislatures have acted wisely in passing measures for the promotion of forest growth and prevention of forest destruction.

One of the most important of these is the authorizing of the governors to issue proclamations of close time on fish and game in the woods, thus destroying the inducements for hunters and fishermen to go into the great forests and set fires. Further legislation along this line may be expected. In all probability the owners of the wild lands will be authorized to prevent trespassing in the same way that it may be prevented on cleared and cultivated lands, though the owners will be sure to find that accompanied by some form of increased taxation.

The Maine Central Railroad is using oil burning locomotives on its trains which run through the woods in dry times. This costs more than the operation of coal burning engines, but if the woods were burned up from engine sparks there would be no freight for the railroad. The oil burning is considered good business by the management of the railroad, and it also goes far to promote good will among the people living along the line.

The forest preservation must go farther. Not only must the state continue to assist in the suppression of forest fires for which Maine has a special wild land district named the Maine Forestry district, but the evidence is strong that the state will in a few years undertake the regulation of the size of trees which may be cut in timber operations, and the disposal of the brush and other waste.

It is furthermore probable that the states will encourage tree planting. One of the notable things is the action of the great railroads west of New York and south of Chicago, which have bought immense tracts of land, and are devoting them to the raising of timber for ties and other railroad purposes.

Our immediate problem in New England is a big one, and does not seem to be receiving adequate attention.

We can learn much from those regions outside New England which have felt the timber scarcity worse than we have.

LITERARY NOTES

What a State Might Do
 The latest statistics in the report of the New Hampshire Forestry Commission state that over 800,000 acres of land once improved and cleared, have since 1850 been abandoned to grow up in brush. If New Hampshire had been the municipality of Zurich, Switzerland, this land would have been taken under some form of the doctrine of eminent domain, planted with trees, and in the later generation have become an asset for its people. The people of Zurich once found themselves without the timber needed for its maintenance, for the building of its houses, and took this wise step. Today, when the expense of operation is paid, the property yields to the government of that city something over fifteen dollars an acre.

What would be the opinion of the generation of New Hampshire citizens thirty years from now of the work of their forebears if they should find themselves possessed of several hundred thousand acres of white pine, planted and managed by a competent state forester, properly accountable to the people, in place of the nearly one million acres now shorn of forest and abandoned by the plow?

It is within the constitutional power of the legislative branch of the state government of New Hampshire to seize this land, plant it with trees—with white pine for the advancing generation, and with spruce for the remoter descendants.

An issue of bonds, to pay the expenditure necessary for the condemnation, reforestation, and guardianship of the growing forests, and redeemable at stated intervals by the sale of the lands back to the people under definite restrictions to insure the preservation of the forests, would probably reimburse the state for its work. It could then be provided that only a certain portion of the growth should be cut in any year, that the trees of small growth should be spared, and that all the danger of fire caused by allowing the waste to remain within the forest should be prevented by compelling the timber harvesters to remove it and burn it.

Dr. Hale, during the recent winter in one of his addresses, offered the suggestion that towns become the owners of forests just beyond the village limits, as has been done in Zurich. This would act as a supplementary reforestation to that of the state—which would obviously apply only to the larger areas. It might be wiser to begin the work by degrees, testing its success gradually. But three things are certain—the State of New Hampshire has the power to do this service for the next century: it will return the forests to all but the mountain tops; the desolated lands will become an asset, while now they are unproductive.—Collier's for June 19.

MISSISSIPPI WANTS SHIP'S FIGUREHEAD

State would like to Place it in the Capitol

Representative Benjamin Humphries of Mississippi called on Assistant Secretary of the navy Beckman Winthrop yesterday with two other Mississippians and asked that the navy Department present to the State of Mississippi the figurehead of the battleship named after that State. It is the idea to have the figurehead of the battleship placed in the state capitol at Jackson. A recent order of the Navy Department called for the removal of the figureheads on all vessels except the famous Dewey's Manila Bay flagship Olympia. This was done to lighten the vessels as much as possible.

Equality
 Before
 Law.

There are four great words that should be written upon the four corner stones of every public building in this land, with the sacredness of a religious rite. These watchwords of the republic are equality, simplicity, economy and justice. They are interwoven with every fibre of the national fabric. To forget or deny them will lead to every misfortune and every possibility of destruction that rises now threateningly in the path of our country's greatness.

Equally before the law is an embodied promise of the United States. It is the first principle sought to be established by the federal constitution. In so far as we have been faithful to it, we have not only grown great and prosperous, but have commanded the respect of others because we respected ourselves. In so far as we have denied it, in so far as there is anywhere a special privilege or an unequal restriction, any decree of legal governmental favoritism whatever, we have changed the government of the fathers and turned backward toward the old, evil traditions whose trail of blood and oppression runs through all history.

It needs heroism, it involves the shaking off of ostentatious follies that have already warped our earlier ideals, it may even require a considerable readjustment of our whole industrial system and a reform in our very conception of the relation between a government and its citizens before the severe standard of absolute equality before the law can be restored. It demands a new standard of economy in both our public and private expenditures.

It demands the repeal of many laws and the suppression of many of the bills presented to state and federal legislatures, so many are there framed to give to one an undue advantage or take away from another fair field and an equal judgment. It demands the abolition of that most hateful and corroding element in a republic that is called class consciousness. To steer the ship of state among these shifting and conflicting currents, now full speed ahead and now full speed astern, is a task of extraordinary difficulty. Yet unless we can follow the course of equal justice laid down on the chart, shipwreck lies somewhere ahead.

We have complicated our educational system, and made it superficial. The just complaint everywhere is that there is no thoroughness, no wholesome mental discipline for the young.

We have complicated our social life until natural human intercourse is overlaid with a thick stratum of vulgar prodigality, luxury, display and insincerity.

We have complicated our lawmaking until, despite the high standards, the unimpaired traditions and the continual labors of the courts, the administration of justice is difficult and sometimes uncertain.

We have complicated our financial system until it encourages the wildest speculation at one moment and at another sinks into business collapse.

We have complicated our industrial organization at both ends of the scale until the great middle class, which represents labor uncombined, a fine energy and modest accumulations of capital, finds many of its rights invaded or destroyed.

And we complicate all these complications by incessantly passing more laws about them. Inseparably connected with equality and simplicity is economy.

Last and noblest conception of all born from the associated life of mankind is justice. The nation must be true to that abstract and impartial justice which is the fountain of nobility, the patent of heroes and the final test of any state. Upon occasion the law-making power has been invoked not to punish guilt, but to give one man an unfair advantage at the cost of another; to confiscate wholly or in part property honestly earned and fairly used; to distinguish between activities by discriminating laws.

to get the applause and Billy Adams is a great favorite.

Despite the hot weather the audience continues good and everyone goes away satisfied. The hall is cool and well ventilated.

DOVER DOINGS

Dover, June 23.—A pretty June wedding took place on Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Leonard Horne, 20 Belmont street, when her daughter, Myra Bernice, was united in marriage with Ralph Henry Bunker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Bunker. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William M. Balch of St. John's Methodist church in the presence of immediate relatives and friends. The couple left on the afternoon train for a short honeymoon, after which they will take up their residence in this city. The groom is engaged in business with his father, who is one of the large coal and wood dealers of the city. The groom is one of the popular young men of the city and is a prominent member of a variety of societies, Knights of Malta, and of the local Grange. The bride is also very popular and has a large circle of friends. A large number of rare and costly presents was received by Mr. and Mrs. Bunker.

The Dover, Somersworth and Berwick City Evangelism union, recently formed, has secured the services of the Rev. Panos C. Gineris, a Greek missionary, to look after the spiritual needs of the Greek immigrants, of whom there are about 1000 in the three places. Rev. Mr. Gineris is a native of Athens, fought as a non-commissioned officer in the Greek army in 1907 against the Turks and was wounded in one of the engagements. He is a graduate of the University of Athens and after coming to the United States attended Bangor Theological seminary and later took post graduate work in Andover Theological seminary and Boston university. He is an ordained Methodist minister and has successfully conducted a Greek mission in Lowell, Mass., or several years. He will still carry on his work there and in addition will devote one day a week to Dover and one day to Somersworth and Berwick.

A clothesline thief, who paraded a black dress from a line in James G. Houston's yard on Monday evening, was arraigned in police court Tuesday morning. John Casey, who is one of the familiar figures in police court, having been arrested no less than fourteen times in the last few years, was the man who was caught with the goods after a chase in which Mr. Houston, Albert Seigney and son participated. Casey got a three months' vacation at the county farm, with costs of $9.64.

Howard Nelson of Portsmouth, agent of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, presented a petition to Judge George Frost Tuesday morning, in which he asked for provision for an abandoned child, aged 3 1/2 years. The child in question is the son of Albert Lamprop, formerly of Manchester and this city, but now of parts unknown. Lamprop and his wife separated and the child was left with Mr. and Mrs. Allen Quimby. As nothing has been heard from the parents since that time, it was deemed advisable to provide for his maintenance with Mr. and Mrs. Quimby until he could be legally adopted. His foster parents have been very kind to him and have become very much attached to the boy, who is a bright little chap. The petition will be presented to the judge of probate and after the legal time has elapsed, the boy will be free for adoption. Until then he will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Quimby.

The Pacific Mills company has posted notices announcing that the mills will close Aug. 27 for a vacation of ten days. This early announcement was made so that the employees might have time to prepare for their vacation.

A BAD FIRE AT SANDWICH, MASS.

Sandwich, Mass., June 23.—Thirteen horses and cows were burned to death, a large stable completely destroyed, two stores and from fifteen to twenty other buildings damaged in a fire that occurred last before dawn today.

The entire force of the local fire department found itself inadequate to fight the flames. Practically every citizen of the town turned himself into a fireman. Carriages were used and placed upon the roofs to put out the falling sparks. Water was carried by hand by men, women and children, and thrown upon the flames that jutted out at the most unexpected places and in a dozen places at once. At one time there were at least fifteen buildings burning, so that the firemen were unable to concentrate their fighting force upon any one blaze.

The fire started in the stable of S. I. Morse. It is not known how it originated.

Senior Reception at Academy

Academy Lost a Match at Tennis

Funeral of the Man Killed by the Cars

Exeter, June 22. The annual reception to the seniors and their friends, by Principal H. P. Amen, was held on Tuesday evening at his residence. It was a pleasant social affair, and was attended by many visitors, who are in row. He was assisted in receiving by the Misses Amen.

For the first time in its history Exeter and St. Paul's school of Concord met in athletics on Tuesday, the occasion being a tennis match, in which the up-state school scored a win over Exeter boys, their superiority was shown in both the singles and doubles. In the singles, which were started in the forenoon, St. Paul's won four matches. G. W. Bergwin of St. Paul A. B. Wise of Exeter 6-1, 6-2 and 6-3; D. T. Wainwright of St. Paul's beat J. J. Blech of Exeter 6-2, 6-4 and 6-4; in the afternoon B. T. Townsend of St. Paul's beat J. C. MacVeagh of Exeter 8-6, 11-9, 6-2 and 6-1. In the doubles B. T. Townsend and W. S. Kuhn of St. Paul's beat F. Cady and E. D. Park of Exeter 6-2 and 7-5. The heat was intense and the players suffered much. MacVeagh, Exeter's best man, was overcome by the heat and was compelled to default the match. He was on the verge of a sunstroke. A large and enthusiastic crowd witnessed the play. The referee was G. M. Branley of St. Paul's school, and Instructor W. D. Head of Exeter.

The funeral services of John Finn who was killed by the cars near Newfields, Sunday morning, was held on Tuesday at St. Michael's church. Requiem mass was held by the pastor the Rev. John E. Finen. The bearers were Timothy A. Fenton, Daniel Terwill, James McNamee of this town and William E. Shennick of Boston. Burial was in the cemetery here.

The body of Mrs. Annie Willis Burley, of Brighton, Mass., was on Monday afternoon brought here for burial. Mrs. Burley was a former resident of this town, having lived here forty years ago. She was in the 72d year of her age. Surviving her is a sister, Mrs. A. J. Fogg. She was daughter of James Willis, who for many years held the position of foreman at the Exeter Manufacturing company.

The schooner Ada J. Campbell arrived Tuesday with a large cargo of coal for H. W. Anderson.

A new concrete walk is being put in leading to the entrance of the G. A. R. hall on Court street.

Captain Swinson of Concord is expected to be here next Saturday night and deliver the pay due the members of the Coast artillery, Company 3, as Company I of the First Infantry, for their services rendered in Camp at Felt's Mills, N. Y., last year.

A busy session of probate court was held on Tuesday.

William E. Hawke of Malden, Mass., manager of last year's baseball team at the academy, is a visitor in town this week. He is now a student at Cornell.

CAPT. F. E. WALDRON

Remains of Gallant Soldier to be Laid to Rest in Portsmouth

On Saturday, June 26, at 11.30 a. m., will be laid to rest, in the Portsmouth cemetery, the remains of Captain Frederick E. Waldron of the Fifty-first New York Volunteers, a soldier of the Civil war.

At the first call for volunteers, he enlisted in the famous Seventh New York Militia, and after its return was commissioned, June 10, 1861, Second Lieutenant of the Thirty-first New York Volunteers. He was afterwards promoted to first lieutenant, and finally to captain, of the Fifty-first New York Volunteers. Both regiments saw much hard service, the Fifty-first, in three years, its depleted ranks often filled by new recruits, reporting, in killed, wounded and missing, thirty-two officers and 883 men.

In the battles near Poplar Spring church, Va., Sept. 29 to Oct. 2, 1864, the Fifty-first regiment then numbering only about 350 officers and men was obliged to surrender, it being completely surrounded. Among these was Lieut. Frederick E. Waldron, who suffered the horrors of southern war prisons, until his exchange the following February. After a brief rest he recovered his health and rejoined his regiment as captain.

At the time of his death, April 17, 1909, in his seventy-first year, at Colon, Panama, he had, for a long time, been engaged in the government service there. While living in New York city he had been a member of the Gen. John A. Dix post, Grand Army of the Republic.

His parents were Samuel Wallis Waldron, born in Portsmouth in 1798, a merchant of Boston from 1831 to 1882, who died in 1888, and Mrs. Martha Melcher Waldron, daughter of Capt. George Melcher, senior, born in Portsmouth in 1800 and died in 1882.

Of his brothers, Capt. Samuel Wallis Waldron, jr., assistant adjutant general of United States volunteers in the Civil war, born in Portsmouth in 1828, died 1882, now reposes in the Portsmouth cemetery. Captain and Brevet Major Hampden Waldron of the Fifth United States Veteran Volunteers, born in 1841, resides in Kingston, N. Y.; and Isaac Waldron, Esq., born in 1834, lives in New York city.

Of his sisters, Mrs. Elliot C. Cowdin died in 1903; Mrs. Edward W. Lambert and Miss Mary Wallis Waldron reside in New York city.

His grandfather, Hon. Isaac Waldron, born 1773, was a merchant of Portsmouth, where he died in 1843, and was member of the legislature, also of the governor's council, and of St. John's lodge of Freemasons.

His great-grandfather, Col. Isaac Waldron, of Barrington, born 1747, died 1841, commanded the twenty-fifth regiment of New Hampshire militia, which was called into active service as volunteers, by Governor John T. Gilman, by general order of Sept. 9, 1814.

PARAGON PARK

It is difficult for one person to tell another about all the delights of a visit to "Paragon Park" this season. Manager George A. Dodge has provided so many features and made such vast improvements for his fifth season that a tour of the Park provides a constant whirl of excitement, and the patron cannot remember half that has been seen.

All the while there is music everywhere. No Park ever provided so much and such a variety of high class music. In fact music seems to be the watchword at "Paragon" this summer. Patrons of the Palm Garden whether at the dining tables or at the tables on the extended verandas, are constantly entertained by the alternating concerts of the Russian Operatic Band of 70 pieces, the All American Band of 30 pieces, and the Hungarian Orchestra in the Palm Garden itself. With the latter band Johnny Maguire, the boy tenor who has been such a favorite for several seasons at "Paragon," sings several times each afternoon and evening. With the Russian Band is heard Olga Xerodoff, the distinguished soprano soloist. She was scheduled to appear last week but was detained in New York under the doctor's care.

Other music is provided by the Philippine Band at the Monkeyland and Jungle show, the ladies orchestra in the new opera house, the orchestra for the vaudeville performances in the Olympic Theatre, and the musicians at the Dance Hall.

A special free feature that proves most pleasing is the singing of the full "Paragon" Opera Company once each afternoon and evening with the band, from the bandstand.

The innovation of the presentation of "Pinafore" in a condensed half hour version by the "Paragon" Opera is making a great hit.

The two ring free open air circus is another new feature which Manager Dodge has introduced this season. The acts consist of Bonnette's fearless whirling slide for life from the top of the electric tower while hanging by his teeth, Mlle de Fontaine and her trained stallions, Leo Fero in his Japanese Pole Act, S. GREENOUGH

A Pretty Wedding Solemnized at Rye.

There was a very pretty home wedding at Rye on Tuesday evening when Miss Martha Frances Greenough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Greenough of that town became the bride of Boardman Mitchell Randall of Conway formerly of this city.

The wedding was solemnized at six o'clock at the home of the bride and it was attended by the relatives and a large party of friends, about twenty-five of the clerks from the George B. French store being present. The house was very attractively decorated, ever green wisteria and other flowers being used in an attractive manner.

Rev. George E. Leighton the pastor of the Universalist church performed the ceremony the double ring service being used. The bride was charmingly gowned in hand embroidered Swiss val lace cut empire, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her going-away dress is of gray prunella with black straw hat trimmed with wisteria and roses.

She was attended by Miss Marion E. Badger who was gowned in white batiste, with val insertion and silk sash and wore the bride's favor, gold collar pins. The ring bearer was little Ruth Goodwin. The best man was Lincoln De Brenner Randall of this city.

The decorations were of palms, roses and locust in the parlor and of ferns and roses in the dining room. Following the service an informal reception was held and wedding supper served of salads, rolls, assorted cake and ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall left at 7.20 for Boston and from there they will go to Conway where they will reside the groom being employed by the Conway company.

The bride is a very popular young lady having been employed for some time at the French store and the groom was employed at the freight office then at the Publishers Paper company and when the plan was closed he was transferred to Conway. He is accountant for The Conway Company.

It is the C. D. Hanscom's ascension and parachute descent.

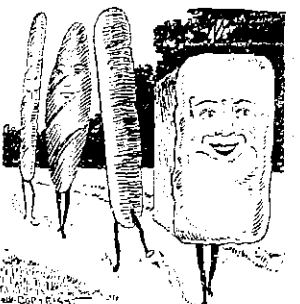

A big show feature this season is "The Spray of Life" an elaborate blinston spectacle which Manager Dodge imported from Paris.

PETTY BURGLARY

The store of B. M. Tilton, at the Kittery ferry landing of the Atlantic Shore line railway was entered on Tuesday night and the work appears to be that of amateur crooks. Five dollars in change was taken from the cash register and money drawers besides cigarettes and tobacco.

Earle Hurd, the clerk, on opening up this morning discovered the window open. The night was burning and it was left by him on Tuesday evening when he closed the place shortly after 11 o'clock.

BRIDGE DRAW STUCK

Hard Work to Close It After Heat Had Shrunk Rails

The excessive heat of Tuesday contracted the rails on the draw of the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge and it took nearly a half hour to properly close the same after a vessel had been allowed to pass through. Traffic east and west on the main line and York Harbor and beach railroads was held up for a while but the lost time was soon made up and the delayed trains back on the schedule.

LIGHT KEEPER'S BOAT STOLEN

Had Stores for Families at White Island

Captain and Mrs. Burke Were Forced to Hire a Motor Boat

When Capt. James Burke, keeper of the White Island light station at the Isles of Shoals, and his wife, went down to Hennessy's boat stage off Water street early this morning to embark in their big sprit sail boat for the islands, there was no trace of her to be seen.

Soon afterward word came from Kittery Point that the missing craft was stranded on the flats between Gerish and Fishing Islands in the lower harbor, but nothing can be done till good tide this afternoon, when she will probably float without damage.

Capt. and Mrs. Burke chartered a motor boat and went to the scene but were unable to reach the boat and determine if any of her contents had been stolen. She was laden with a valuable cargo of stores for the keeper's and assistants' families on White Island.

The thief, who was evidently a poor navigator and a stranger to the harbor, must have taken the boat before daylight this morning, and become bewildered in attempting to get out of the mouth of the mouth of the river. There is no clue to the identity of the miscreant.

WEAPON FOUND

Big Razor Supposed to Be the One Used in Cutting Dipasquale

The police, who while hunting in the North End this morning for escaped would-be murderer Luigi Ciprano, who has not been seen since the cutting affray on Tuesday afternoon, met Frank Glaze, a Polisher, who was painting a building on Green street at the time. Mr. Glaze called officer Burke and handed him a big razor which he found in an alley close by his home.

Luigi, in flight, attempted to wipe the blood from the weapon on his pants, and then threw it in a yard. The razor is of an American make with a very keen edge and it plainly showed the use it had been put to as a good part of the blade was covered with blood.

The police are covering the North End district as well as they can and are satisfied that Luigi is still hiding in that locality.

The victim, Ottavio Dipasquale, at the hospital, it is said will recover though Doctors Towle and Crossman were obliged to take fifty stitches on his face and neck to close up the wound.
